Abstract

In this thesis. I have tried to shed light on two books of Arabic language ; they are Al-Sahbi fi Fekah Alluga of Abin Faris (395H) and Fekah Alluga wa Ser Al-ArabiaOf Al-Thalibi (429H).

They Are Phiological books for they contain grammatical, conjugational, acoustical and semantic materials .

The study involves an introduction and a preface about authors life it falls into three chapters.

The first chapter consternates on the phonetic and conjugational matters. Its divided into two sections. Sections one deals with the acoustical subject while the second deals with the conjunctional.

The Second chapter focuses on studying the grammatical aspects in the two books it falls into four sections.

The fourth section deals with (Marfua't, Mansubat, Majrurat and Verbs).

The Third chapter is devoted to studying the semantic issue. Its divided into two sections. The first section concerns the semantic development. On the other hand the second section studies the semantic relation ship it comprises (homony my, antinomy, and synony my).
