

(Sixth lecture)

المحاضرة السادسة

A. Classification of organizations.

International organization can be classified into :-

1. according to the range and extent :-

-general (international)

- particular (regional)

2. according to their program and activities:-

- political

-economic

-social

-cultural

-technical

-legislative

B. Nowadays international organizations are considered one of the main subjects of international law. it obviously has legal personality, which derived from the substantial conclusion and comprehensive essence of the charter or a statute constituting particular attributes of the legal personality of an organization.