

Words are seldom exactly synonymous. Discuss-1

Words are seldom exactly the same because even if they share the same referential meaning, they may be different from the point of view of their .emotive, evocative and associative meanings

.Partial synonymy is more common than total synonymy. Elaborate-2

Considering the fact that synonymous words are context dependent (which means that certain items can be considered synonymous if they are interchangeable in certain contexts) and since this can occur only in some contexts; partial synonymy .is more common than total synonymy
